

Craft Product Statement

We at MironMakes™ have produced the new application CRAFT™, this social networking app will revolutionize the career market sector. This is predominantly based on the fact that it focuses on the short or temporary side of work. It allows economic movability for those who doesn't have a concrete job or is traveling. A general synopsis of the GUI is that users post their temporary jobs on listings which we charge commission for and potential employees can choose those jobs whether they need a skill set or if the listing doesn't require one as well integrate ad based revenue. This application's goal is to fight unemployment as well as prevent people from potentially becoming homeless under times where families are financially struggling. It allows the public to get a side income adjacent to his or her standard job. A finite amount of people live check to check and this application allows a chance for those people to accumulate wealth to invest in themselves. The momentum of this app will reduce our unemployment rate during the exponential increase of our population.
